The Zoo Needs Your Help To...

- Upgrade radiology to digital equipment in the Sarah Allison Steffee Center for Zoological Medicine
- Launch a prestigious veterinary residency program under the auspices of the American College of Zoological Medicine
- Grow sustainable “browse gardens” on-site, to enhance animal health and nutrition

Ensuring excellence in animal welfare is paramount. Priorities include enrichment and positive behavioral training, quality foods that ensure health and nutrition, and professional development for the dedicated veterinarians, scientists and keepers whose education and experience make Cleveland Metroparks Zoo a premier animal care facility.
